The American Experience Foundation (AEF) enriches the lives of students through inspirational travel experiences and educational opportunities to cultivate the next generation of hospitality industry leaders. AEF invests in young people in our community, supporting their college and career readiness.

WHAT WE DO:

1. INSPIRE through free field trips to the treasures of our nation’s capital for students from DC and across the country.

2. TRAIN through internships and educational opportunities to connect students with industry professionals.

3. EDUCATE through scholarships to qualified students and alumni from DC’s ten high school Academies of Hospitality & Tourism, Culinary Arts, and Mass Media.

By leveraging our partner, Destination DC, and its nearly 1,000 member businesses, AEF is uniquely positioned to open doors for students, fill a need for career exposure and create pathways to success.
For 20 years, the American Experience Foundation has been dedicated to supporting the hospitality industry in Washington, DC. After September 11, the affiliated charity of Destination DC was created to support tourism recovery. In 2015, AEF’s mission narrowed to focus on student career development.

AEF inspires the next generation of hospitality professionals. It has grown as a leader in diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives for the hospitality workforce, youth development and pandemic recovery.

Challenges surrounding uncertainty in person schooling remained this year. AEF adjusted to a hybrid internship to match a new workforce structure, and proudly supported the Academies of Hospitality and Tourism and Culinary Arts. On our 20th anniversary, we celebrate resurgence.

A FEW HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE YEAR:

- AEF celebrated over $100,000 in scholarship awards since 2015.
- Our partners at Destination DC welcomed Academy graduates Zoe Roberts (Jackson-Reed, ’18), Diamond Hunter (Jackson-Reed, ’18) and Cayla Lewis (Columbia Heights, ’19).
- We welcomed Christen Miller, Partnerships Manager. Christen brings a wealth of knowledge from both the destination marketing industry from her time at VisitPITTSBURGH and non-profit development at Junior Achievement of Greater Washington.
- Field trips were reinstated.
- We led by connecting education to real-world experiences in the industry and through professional development opportunities for educators.

AEF’S PROGRAMS AND IMPACT GROWS IN FY2023 BY:

- Welcoming a new Academy of Hospitality and Tourism at River Terrace Education Campus
- Working closely with the Academies of Mass Media at Ballou, Coolidge and Jackson-Reed high schools
- Launching a new mentorship program to connect industry professionals to future leaders
- Restarting overnight field trip programs to share the treasures of our incredible city with young people

Finally, we’re expanding communication. In addition to subscribing to our monthly newsletter, please connect with us on LinkedIn and Twitter. We’ll also be launching student-run, student-focused Instagram and TikTok accounts to better connect with young people in our community. We look forward to the year to come together and thank all our partners for making our 20th year one of growth and success.

When I was a kid, I loved to spin my globe and dream of exploring the world. Through travel, I’ve met remarkable people, had incredible experiences and enjoyed lifelong friendships. Early mentors helped me understand that I could also build a career in travel and tourism. I am incredibly proud of how the American Experience Foundation introduces tourism to students. The industry has given me many opportunities to excel, and I’m committed to creating experiences that inspire young people to think beyond their communities and enjoy the world of travel, too.”

The Student Youth Travel Association and Your Big Year brought their Global Citizens Challenge to Washington, DC this summer. In partnership with AEF, student participants tackled global issues while experiencing the best of DC, including visits to our partners Ben’s Chili Bowl, Hard Rock Café, Le Pan Quotidien and the International Spy Museum. Briana Thomas, author and historian, took us on an incredible mural tour of U Street.

My experience was great! We learned new things, stayed in a nice hotel and tasted new foods from different restaurants. Being from DC, I was able to teach the other teens on the trip important facts about my city.”

As an educator, it makes our jobs easier to know we have the staff of the American Experience Foundation on the other end of the phone. You know that you’re always going to have someone supporting you and whatever they bring to the table is going to be something special. We wish that all our partners were like AEF.”

Photos this spread: Students from Ballou and Roosevelt Culinary Academies faced off last December at the Willard InterContinental hotel, who entrusted their annual gingerbread displays to these teams. Their creations were judged by a panel of local industry leaders — Chef Rochelle Cooper, Chef Danny Lledó, Chef Luca De Marchis and Michael McCarthy of DC Modern Luxury.

AEF is helping to ensure diverse voices become part of management and c-suite teams in the hospitality, tourism and culinary industries. When AEF creates work-based learning opportunities for students with industry partners, students meet role models and build professional networks.
EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

This year AEF explored the vast array of opportunities in the hospitality and tourism industry — everything from sports management to hotels to large public events.

“Learn as much as you can. Keep your eyes and ears open. Pay attention. Meet people. Show up and be open. Coming from Houston, I had no idea I would be a professional football player in Washington, DC. When you’re 17, 18, 19 years old, you have no idea what can happen or where you’ll be at 20 and 25.”

The hospitality industry interests me because of its broad nature, it can be found in many sectors of work, including my passion for computer science and data. During my internship, I was able to work with the team on data analysis and management projects that had real-world impact. It was exciting to gain experience and insights into the industry with the help of AEF!

This internship was my first introduction to hospitality and tourism. I made it my mission to learn as much as I can to raise Washington, DC’s popularity. I’m excited to see what I can offer to people who have never been to or heard of DC. I hope to take what I learned from this experience and apply it to my daily life as I go into digital media at the University of the District of Columbia.

I loved learning about what jobs are available but often not known. I also learned that if you love a particular thing and want to make it your career, you can turn your passion into one. I am an entrepreneur and hope to start several businesses. I worked with Partnerships and Alliances, where I grew and organized data on Destination DC members, helping those members get the most out of their experience. This helped me experience the basics of how to run a business.

It has been a rewarding experience for all of us and now Christell is part of our family. We embrace the partnership with AEF in developing new talent with an interest in hospitality to showcase the many career opportunities our hotel has to offer new candidates. We love helping young people find themselves and build a career within our industry.

From March until May, DC Public Schools’ Career Bridge Internships showcase the limitless possibilities that are available to high school seniors looking to solidify their plans after graduation and help build their career skills. Hotels are a perfect spot to explore careers and get hands-on experience in the workplace. AEF is proud to work with local hoteliers to give students these opportunities.

It wasn’t sure what I wanted to do after graduation, but this internship opened my eyes and motivated me to work hard to be part of the hospitality industry. I appreciated how everyone was so kind and welcoming. I now plan to go to school and hope to keep working with them during my time off! I really love being part of the AC Hotel family!

CAREER READY INTERNSHIPS

Who: Nine students from the Academies of Hospitality & Tourism at Ballou and Jackson-Reed High Schools and the Academy of Media at Coolidge High School

Theme: Sustainability and industry responsibility
- How an organization’s decisions impact the workforce, customers and communities
- How workplaces foster a diverse and inclusive environment

Format: The hybrid internship included online speakers and in-person site visits to various businesses and organizations across the city.
- Interns gave creative weekly themed presentations to local industry leaders.
- Hospitality professionals provided feedback, highlighting strengths and areas of improvement.

Student Participants:

“...learned so much about sustainability and taking responsibility to another level. There’s so much to think about when beginning a successful business: how to cater to your clients and balance the needs of your business with the needs of being sustainable.”

“...gained new knowledge that I hadn’t learned in school. We learned skills about careers, college and moving forward. We have practiced and learned from our mistakes. Everyone was respectful, helped each other and made us all feel like real professionals.”

“...the best part about this internship was the site visits and the weekly presentations. The site visits were hands-on learning experiences, while the presentations allowed us to showcase our knowledge and creativity. I got to meet professionals who gave us advice on public speaking and careers.”

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

As a trusted partner of DC’s educators and leaders, AEF is expanding its role by informing educators on trends, knowledge and opportunities in the hospitality and tourism industries. Building on the success of the high school Academies, DC Public Schools asked AEF to help expand career exploration into key middle schools across the city.

AEF expertly helps young people connect with employers and career opportunities and we have shared this expertise with other stakeholders both locally and nationally.

THANK YOU to our partners who helped us host four professional development opportunities.

On a panel at the Department of Employment Services’ Level Up Conference, my colleagues Lisa Waldschmitt, Zoe Roberts and I discussed the best ways to support young people who are transitioning from internships into successful careers, focusing on the skills training and support systems for early career professionals to be successful. Words cannot describe how grateful I am for these full circle moments. Advocating for young people like me has been extremely rewarding.”

Since 2015, the AEF Scholarship Fund has awarded over $100,000 to deserving students. The AEF Student Advisory Committee keeps Academy alumni engaged and brings a student voice to decision-making.

“I chose to apply for the scholarship because I knew I wanted to go to school and pursue hospitality. I used the scholarship to buy health insurance and expensive books! What I learned in my Academy, in my internships with AEF, and in college — thanks to the help of the AEF scholarship — has changed me and helps me in so many aspects of my life.”

AEF’s support does not end at graduation—whether a young person’s path takes them to college or directly into building their career.
In June, AEF reunited with Academy alumni, scholarship winners and interns. We’re so proud of everything they have accomplished and look forward to celebrating their future successes. Thank you to our hosts, John McDonnell, President of Clyde’s Restaurant Group, and the entire team at Clyde’s of Gallery Place.

In May, Washington, DC lost a tireless champion for its young people. Ray Bennett, President of U.S. and Canada Franchising and Managed by Marriott Select Brands for Marriott International, tragically passed away at the age of 53. AEF worked closely with Ray as a fellow member of the DC Academy of Hospitality & Tourism Industry Advisory Board. We believed that to whom much has been given, much is expected, so he made opening doors for others a priority. We will miss him deeply but will work to honor his legacy of service, servant leadership, mentorship, curiosity, and a commitment to help young people achieve their dreams. In his memory, a memorial fund was jointly created by Marriott, the Office of the State Superintendent of Education and AEF.

AEF worked closely with Ray as a fellow member of the DC Academy of Hospitality & Tourism Industry Advisory Board. We believed that to whom much has been given, much is expected, so he made opening doors for others a priority.

We will miss him deeply but will work to honor his legacy of service, servant leadership, mentorship, curiosity, and a commitment to help young people achieve their dreams. In his memory, a memorial fund was jointly created by Marriott, the Office of the State Superintendent of Education and AEF.

“I’m grateful and overjoyed to be awarded a scholarship, which will help lessen the financial burden as I begin my academic journey as a college student. Winning it means a lot to me, especially because of the love that I have received being a part of the Maya Angelou Academy.”
